

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to express my deepest and sincere gratitude to my thesis advisor, Dr. Hsueh-ying Yu, for her enlightening guidance and inspiring instruction in the development and completion of this study. In the process of meeting and discussion, Dr. Yu not only provided prudent and pointed guidance but also gave me warm and sincere support.

Thanks also go to the committee members, Dr. Yuen-mei Yin and Dr. Hsueh-o Lin, for their profound and carefully aimed comments and suggestions during the oral defense. I especially appreciate Dr. Yin's valuable advice to help design the experiment and her constant encouragement. My gratitude is extended to all my teachers in the Master of Arts in English Teaching Program, for their devoted instruction.

I am appreciative of the members of my thesis study group, Cindy Chang and Stacey Hung, for their support and encouragement during the tough time of this year. Special thanks go to my classmates, Melody Chen and April Fan for their help and encouragement.

Finally, a special gratitude goes to my family for their unfailing support. I thank my parents for their abiding love and my sisters for their understanding to give me strength and confidence in depression during the most difficult time of thesis writing.
