Acknowledgements

I am extremely indebted to my advisor, Professor Yin-I Chen, whose course on “Imagining London” enlightens me to the studies of urban spatiality, whose instruction helps complete my thesis step by step, and whose encouragement and patience offers me valuable suggestions and gives me confidence.

I also want to express my gratitude to my committee members, Professor Tsui-fen Jiang and Hsiu-chih Tsai, whose advice and careful readings illuminate the way to revision, and whose kindness relieves me from the anxiety and fear for the oral defense.

I owe a lot to Professor Li-min Yang, whose course on “Urban Discourse” inspires me to do further research on cities, and whose critical questions helps to improve the quality of the thesis. I am much obliged to Professor Chin-yuan Hu, whose course on “Travel Literature” brings me to explore travel theories and initiates my framework writing for the thesis.

Moreover, I want to thank my classmates and friends for their considerate encouragement and timely assistance: Chun-hui Chan, Kai-lin Cheng, and Cheng-jin Kuo. There are more friends are deserving of thanks than I have space to mention here. Their supports motivate me all the way until the thesis is eventually completed.

Last but not least, I am obliged to my parents and my brother, whose unfailing love and support lead me to go through the challenges and anxiety during the bleak time of my thesis writing. They always stand by my side and provide me with a sweet home to finish my thesis at ease. Writing this thesis is not an easy task. Even so, the process of the exploration and research makes all efforts rewarding.
