I am indebted to the following people who made my thesis possible. First, I would like to express my most sincere gratitude to my advisor, Dr. Chin-chi Chao, who guided me through the whole research process. She provided me with valuable suggestion and comments to enrich the content of the thesis and guided me to go through the difficulties throughout the process of the present research. Second, my thanks go to my colleagues at the school for their support and consideration during my writing process. Particularly, I am deeply grateful to Angela and Bernice (pseudonyms), who allowed me to enter their teaching contexts and shared their feelings and viewpoints with me. Third, I also appreciated for the advices shared by the committee members, Dr. Ching-fen Chang and Dr. Yi-ping Huang. Their suggestion enabled me to further revise my thesis. Next, my warmest thanks go to my classmates at graduate school—Sonia, Dora, Anna and Joy, who always believed in my ability and gave me confidence to complete this study. Also, I would like to thank my friends, Kate, Evelyn, and Anna about their support and encouragement. Finally, my whole-hearted thanks go to my parents and younger brother for their love and support and also my boyfriend, Will, for being the most caring and thoughtful. It is all these people's support and blessing made this work possible.
